

Join Us for Pacific College's Integrative Medical Discussion Group

Integrative Oncology

Friday, May 20, 2011
6:30pm - 9:00pm

Integrative Oncology has become an area of increasing need for attention, as cancer remains prevalent in today's society. Find out how cancer and its effects are treated in integrative medicine and the latest developments in how a treatment plan is best customized between both eastern and western perspectives. You'll learn from a diverse panel of medical professionals (Medical Doctors, Acupuncturists, Psychologists, and other licensed health professionals) on how they are integrating diverse methodologies in treating the cancer, preventing recurrence, and reducing the side effects and symptoms.

We invite you to join the Integrative Medical Discussion Group to discover unique perspectives and medical views on this growing and unfortunate issue.

Our panelists include:

Daniel Weber, PhD, MSc
Kim Taylor, L.Ac.
Dan Vicario, MD
Paul Brenner, MD, PhD

When:

Friday, May 20, 2011
6:30 -7:30pm open networking & potluck
7:30-9pm discussion

Where:

Pacific College of Oriental Medicine
7445 Mission Valley Road, Suite 105
San Diego, CA 92108
Room 119

What To Bring:

A dish to share for our potluck

RSVP:

Deb Davies
(619) 574-6909 x145
ddavies@pacificcollege.edu

Search for us on Facebook & MeetUp:
Integrative Medical Discussion Group

The goals of the Integrative Medical Discussion Group are to build bridges among all types of health practitioners and to increase awareness as to how powerful the medicines can be when combined. We create a collaborative environment for knowledge growth and in turn empower both doctors and patients with more options to promote overall health and well-being. The group helps establish connections among future doctors, and will educate, raise awareness, and enlighten the community on the ever-growing topic of Integrative Medicine. This event is open to the public.